

Open and free to the public

Registration is strongly encouraged

Simultaneous translation in English and Japanese

一般無料公開講演会・事前登録をお勧めします。・英語・日本語同時通訳付き

フクシマと海

Fukushima & the Ocean

Public Colloquium

November 14, 2012 • 16:00 – 19:00

一般向け講演会・2012年11月14日

Ito Hall, Hongo Campus, The University of Tokyo

東京大学本郷キャンパス・伊藤謝恩ホール

Scientific assessment of what is known and unknown about radionuclides released to the ocean from Fukushima - Their fate, potential impacts on marine ecosystems and human health, public policies and how information is communicated to the public.

16:00 – 17:30

Opening remarks

Hiroshi Niino, University of Tokyo

Radionuclides in the Ocean

Ken Buesseler, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution

Radionuclides in Marine Biota

Jota Kanda, Tokyo University of Marine Science and Technology

Seafood Safety and Policy

Hiroyuki Matsuda, Yokohama National University

Impacts on Human Health

James Seward, Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory

The Role of the Media

Geoff Brumfiel, Nature

17:30 – 19:00

Questions from the audience to panelists

Moderator: Hideaki Shiroyama, University of Tokyo

Sponsors

The Japan Foundation Center for Global Partnership

Science Council of Japan

The University of Tokyo

Atmosphere and Ocean Research Institute

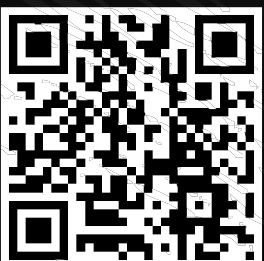

Todai Policy Alternatives Research Institute

Yokohama National University

Leadership Program in Sustainable Living with Environmental Risk

Gordon and Betty Moore Foundation

Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution

www.whoi.edu/tokyoevent