

The Payroll Tax Cut: Time to Sweeten Your Retirement Savings?

The new federal tax law has put 2% more in most Americans' paychecks this year. The reason: a temporary cut in the federal FICA (Social Security and Medicare) tax on earnings up to $106,800.

What should you do with this gift from Uncle Sam? Here are three options (and why we recommend the third):

Spend it on... stuff (and help stimulate the economy).

Save it to shore up an emergency fund or pay down high-rate debt.

Invest it in your future by raising your retirement plan contributions. Why might this be your best choice?

Two reasons: First, how much you save is key to building a nest egg that can last as long as you do. Also, paying less into Social Security today could affect your federal benefits tomorrow. So, by shifting tax savings to retirement savings, you could end up fixing a hole in your own safety net.

Next, it's painless — a chance to help fund your future without pruning your paycheck. In fact, if you boost pre-tax contributions by 2%, you'll still see more take-home pay.
