

Beaufort Gyre Exploration Project: Dispatch 37: Photo highlights

It's the end of the cruise and all the science work is complete. Now the scientists have to finish packing all of their gear and getting it ready to ship home. We first spotted land this morning with a nice sunrise. We are making our way back to Kugluktuk in decent weather. It is getting warmer as we go and the seas aren't too bad. Today's dispatch is a photo highlight of the cruise. Enjoy!
