

DECEMBER 22, 2021

Five idioms for ocean lovers

The world is mine oyster, scuttlebutt, and taken aback...Learn about the history of these maritime idioms

GIVE

EXPLORE

SHOP

We interrupt this blog

WHOI director of research communications, Ken Kostel, recounts his first dive in HOV Alvin

Exploring ocean worlds from a lab on Earth

Humans have not yet ventured to another ocean world. But that hasn't stopped us from studying them

Image of the week: "Deep ocean jewelry"

This ornate colonial tunicate spirals in the deep ocean while it snacks on phytoplankton

This is our time

End the year with a bang and make a lasting donation to support vital ocean science

WHOI IN THE NEWS

EOS

A Bright, LED-Lit Future for Ocean Sciences

NEW SCIENTISTS

Ambergris: What fragrant whale excretions tell us about ancient oceans

PHYS.ORG

New ocean floats to boost global network essential for weather, climate research

IEEE SPECTRUM

The First U.S. Human-Operated Submersible Changed the Course of Oceanography

SCIENCE NEWS FOR STUDENTS

From icebergs to smoke, forecasting where dangers drift

Where are WHOI Ships Now?

START TRACKING →

GIVE NOW

SHOP WHOI

Follow us #WHOI

