

APRIL 27, 2023

Where The Weird Things Are: An Ocean Twilight Zone Adventure

WHOI engineer Molly Curran reads about the adventures of robot Meso in a new book about the ocean's mysterious middle

GIVE EXPLORE SHOP

Natural wax could replace petroleum in cosmetic care

WHOI and partner sign license for Upwell Cosmetics to make and market microalga-derived wax

The role of science in offshore wind
Learn more about wind energy with these new FAQs

Yawkey Series Presents: "Oceans Beyond Earth"

Use promo code WHOI23 to attend this live event for free, April 29th at 3 p.m. at the Boston Science Museum

Here comes the sun!
Dress for brighter days on the water with our WHOI sun shirts. All proceeds go to ocean science

WHOI IN THE NEWS

AP NEWS

California researchers attempt ocean climate solutions

NPR

Climate change is threatening endangered right whales as Greenland's ice melts

SMITHSONIAN MAGAZINE

See the Pristine Coral Reefs Found off the Galápagos Islands

THE PATCH

$300K Grant Looks To Limit Single Use Plastics In Cape Cod Service Industry

Where are WHOI Ships Now?

START TRACKING →

An illustration of a large blue and white research ship sailing on the ocean.

GIVE NOW SHOP WHOI

Follow us #WHOI

